During the 2003 invasion of Iraq, the United States Military issued a deck of cards with the names and faces of 52 members of Saddam's military and general targets the US wanted captured or killed. These were the 52 most wanted people in the country. Every service member was given a deck of these cards to familiarize themselves with the enemy, know who to look for. This project will take that concept but apply it to the 52 most credible threats to global peace today.
